GATHERING ACTIVITIES

DATE : February 5, 2026

In accordance with the strategic roadmap outlined in the Quality Basic Education Development Plan (QBED) 2025–2026, the Learning Systems Strand (LSS) of the Department of Education is currently gathering baseline data to ensure the continuous alignment of its reform initiatives.

To facilitate this, the LSS is undertaking a systematic and evidence-based review of school-level programs across select public and private institutions. This initiative involves online focus group discussions and comprehensive school visits in selected schools, as well as nationwide data gathering through surveys designed to evaluate curriculum coherence, program relevance, and resource alignment. The end goal is to ensure that learner development in the Arts and Culture Program remains effective, holistic, and consistent across all key stages.

The data gathering activities are divided into three parts:

1. Online nationwide survey to be accomplished by all participants
2. Online Focus Group Discussion (FGD) with identified schools and division offices
3. Onsite school visit of identified schools

The data-gathering activities will be facilitated by the Arts and Culture Technical Working Group (TWG) from the DepEd Central Office, alongside external representatives from partner agencies and institutions. These sessions will include the administration of surveys and the conduct of FGDs to gather necessary qualitative and quantitative insights, while ensuring that informed and parental consent forms are provided to all participants.
